

Kings Landing Gears Up for Summer Day Camps

Children ages 5-12 can become part of the historic village for the day

Prince William, NB – School's out for summer, but the fun is just beginning at Kings Landing. For children ages 5-12, a unique day camp experience awaits at the historical village.

Starting July 8, children ages 5-12 can attend day camps at Kings Landing. Donning 19th century clothing and leaving behind modern technology, children become part of the village. From feeding animals and working in the trade shops, to domestic work like butter making and wool processing; these camps provide a wholesome learning environment.

In addition to attending the one-room schoolhouse, having lunch at the Learning Centre, and eating a snack at the Jones House, each day of the week presents new experiences for children attending day camps.

Mondays are for the Print Shop. Tuesdays are for handicrafts. Wednesdays are for baking. Thursdays are for butter making. Fridays focus on flax and a theatre show by the Visiting Cousins, another children's program at Kings Landing.

Each day promises an enriching, educational, and entertaining day for children who take the journey back in time.

Children can attend for one day or multiple days through the summer. Camps are available Monday to Friday, from July 8 until August 23. Registrations are available online now through the Kings Landing website. Click to learn more and to reserve a spot.
